1 Style for trainees

Round 1

A new team of trainees keeps making costly pricing errors. The manager leaves them to decide alone.

Which style suits them best now?

- A A more autocratic style
- B A laissez-faire style
- C Let the best trainee lead
- D A democratic style

ANSWER

✓ A more autocratic style

Why: Untrained staff need clear direction, so a more autocratic style suits them.

2 Team vote effects

Round 1

Your manager asks the sales team for ideas and lets them vote.

Which two effects are most likely?

- A Decisions are made faster
- B Staff feel valued
- C Decisions take longer
- D Staff lose interest in targets
- E The manager keeps full control

ANSWER

✓ Staff feel valued
✓ Decisions take longer

Why: Involving staff wins their support, but it takes time.

3 Styles by staff say

Round 2

Three leadership styles.

Order them by how much staff decide, least first?

- A Democratic
- B Laissez-faire
- C Autocratic

ANSWER

1. Autocratic
2. Democratic
3. Laissez-faire

Why: Autocratic: the leader decides; democratic: staff share; laissez-faire: staff decide.

Topic tasks

4 Cost of a meeting

Round 2

The manager asks the whole team.

Wage cost of the meeting?

Sales staff at the meeting	11 staff
Each one's pay an hour	£16
Manager's pay an hour	£32
Meeting length	3 hours

£624

3 × (11 × £16 + £32) = £624

Why: Asking the team wins support, but its time has a cost.

5 Decide in a crisis

Round 3

A safety fault means one model must come off sale within the hour.

How should the manager decide, and why?

A Hold a team vote first

B Decide alone and tell staff

ANSWER

✓ Decide alone and tell staff

Why: An emergency needs a fast, clear decision.

6 Help a keen team

Round 3

Your skilled, keen sales team hits every target, but complains the manager checks every deal.

Which change is most likely to help?

A Give the team more freedom

B Set targets without asking them

C Check every deal more closely

D Hold a vote on every small decision

ANSWER

✓ Give the team more freedom

Why: Skilled, motivated staff work best with freedom to decide.

Final questions

Each pupil answers 6 final questions: general IGCSE business questions.

Then each pupil writes one short answer: “Explain one drawback of a democratic leader.”
